Terms of use of the website of the National Social Security Office

The purpose of the terms listed below is to define the conditions under which the National Social Security Office allows you access to its website.

The National Social Security Office makes this site (www.rszonsslsz.be) and the information it contains available to you insofar as you accept unconditionally the "terms of use" stated on this web page. By consulting the website www.rszonsslss.be and the information stored on this site, you endorse these conditions.

1. Information

The data figuring on this site are supposed to be accurate from the moment when they are published, but may as time goes by become inexact or dated. No warranty is provided as to the quality, accuracy or completeness of any information furnished on this website. The content of the site (including the links) may be adapted, changed or completed at all times without notice of notification.

The National Social Security Office assumes no single responsibility for any damage that might result from whatever use of the information available on this website, including, without any restriction, all losses, work stoppages, damages caused to programmes or other data on the computer system, to the user's hardware, software or other items. You have to take all necessary precaution to ascertain that the items you select for your use contain no viruses, bugs or Trojan Horses a.s.o., which could destroy or seriously affect your data or your hardware.

Consequently any use you make of the information available on this website is entirely at your own risk.

2. Links and references

2.1. This website contains hyperlinks to other websites and references to other sources of information. These links and sources of information are only made available to you for the sake of information. The National Social Security Office does not control these websites and the information they contain and cannot thus provide any warranty as to the quality and/or completeness of this information.

2.2. The National Social Security Office assumes no single responsibility for any damage ensuing from the consultation of information that figures on other websites or in other sources of information in general and to which the site refers.

3. Intellectual proprietary rights

3.1. You have the right to download and reproduce the information on this website for personal use in accordance with the provisions of the law of June 30 1994 on copyrights and neighbouring rights.

3.2. The National Social Security Office retains all intellectual proprietary rights on the website itself as well as on the information made available.

4. Protection of the personal data

4.1. If you give personal data through this website, these will be processed by the National Social Security Office, Victor Hortaplein / place Victor Horta 11 at 1060 Brussels.

The National Social Security Office will use your personal data exclusively with a view to providing you with the information requested.

The National Social Security Office will not communicate your personal data to third parties, except when this is a necessary condition for complying with your request.

4.2. In accordance with the law of December 8 1992 on privacy protection with regard to the processing of the personal data, you have the right to retrieve at the National Social Security Office the information that has been conveyed and to have it rectified if necessary.

In case of further questions regarding the processing of your information, you can apply to the Service Quality of the National Social Security Office, Victor Hortaplein / place Victor Horta 11 at 1060 Brussels or to kwaliteit@rsz.fgov.be (qualité@onss.fgov.be).

5. Disputes

The present online agreement and all disputes and claims ensuing from this site or any data available on this site fall under the Belgian law.

When consulting this website, this means that you submit to the jurisdiction of the Belgian courts and that you agree to bring all cases exclusively to these courts.
